5. Background:

United Nations Office for Disaster Risk Reduction (UNISDR)

Created in December 1999, the United Nations Office for Disaster Risk Reduction (UNISDR) is the designated focal point in the United Nations system for the coordination of disaster reduction and to ensure synergies among the disaster reduction activities of the United Nations and regional organizations and activities in socio-economic and humanitarian fields. Led by the United Nations Special Representative of the Secretary-General for Disaster Risk Reduction, UNISDR has over 100 staff located in its headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland, and 5 regional offices and other field presences.

Specifically, UNISDR coordinates international efforts in disaster risk reduction, and guides, monitors and reports on the progress of the implementation of the Hyogo Framework for Action; campaigns to create global awareness of disaster risk reduction benefits and empower people to reduce their vulnerability to hazards; advocates for greater investments in disaster risk reduction to protect people's lives and assets, and for increased and informed participation of men and women in reducing disaster risk; and informs and connects people by providing practical services and tools such as PreventionWeb, publications on good practices, and by leading the preparation of the Global Assessment Report on Disaster Risk Reduction and the organisation of the Global Platform for Disaster Risk Reduction.

The position is located in the secretariat of the United Nations International Strategy for Disaster Reduction (UNISDR), Regional Office for the Americas, which is located in Panama City in Panama covering the Americas region.

ECHO: Humanitarian Aid and Civil Protection department of the European Commission

Its Humanitarian Aid and Civil Protection department (ECHO) was created in 1992 as an expression of the European solidarity with people in need all around the world. In 2004 it became the Directorate-General for Humanitarian Aid before integrating Civil Protection in 2010 for a better coordination and disaster response inside and outside Europe.

In 1996, ECHO launched a specific programme, DIPECHO (Disaster Preparedness ECHO) dedicated to disaster preparedness, targeting vulnerable communities living in the main disaster-prone regions of the world.

ECHO's humanitarian mandate prescribes a focus on saving lives, providing relief and thus assisting the most vulnerable groups. ECHO prioritizes 'people-oriented' preparedness measures and, therefore, focuses on supporting strategies and complementing existing strategies that enable local communities and institutions to better prepare for, mitigate and respond adequately to natural hazards by enhancing their capacities to cope and respond. This increases their resilience and reduces their vulnerability.

ECHO's support is a combination of community-based projects and projects at national or regional level that strive to increase resilience in the event of natural hazards. Projects are implemented through a wide range of partners, including local organisations that provide access to the most marginalized and vulnerable people.

DIPECHO Programme

The DIPECHO Programme contributes to the implementation of the Hyogo Framework for Action 2005-2015 (HFA). A key element in DIPECHO is the development of Key contributions in Disaster Risk Reduction (DRR) so as to identify successful models for replication elsewhere by national/sub-national authorities or other funding instruments of the European Commission, other donors.

The Caribbean region experiences multiple disasters: The region is prone to hurricanes, floods, flash floods, tsunamis, landslides and mudslides. Some islands experience earthquakes and volcanic eruptions. The physical risk is combined with socioeconomic factors, such as high population density, fast demographic growth, inequality and great poverty. The combination of these factors results in highly vulnerable communities, with few coping capacities in the event of disaster. Moreover, climate change is likely to negatively affect disaster trends in the region.

DIPECHO Action Plan for the Caribbean 2013-2014

The 2013-2014 DIPECHO Action Plan for the Caribbean aims to establish greater collaboration and coordination between partners, allowing programming of common outcomes and the harmonization of practices. Furthermore, it focuses on improving communication and dissemination of DRR key contributions in the region, by capturing evidence of success on how DIPECHO projects have allowed the most at risk communities to anticipate, withstand, adapt and sometimes, recover quickly from disasters.

The forthcoming Action Plan also takes account of the Hyogo Framework for Action 2005-2015: Building the Resilience of Nations and Communities to Disasters and reconfirms the commitment to regional initiatives to contribute to make schools and hospitals safer and cities resilient in disaster prone areas.

Context of the consultancy

The consultancy is related to the UNISDR regional project within the framework of the DIPECHO Action Plan for the Caribbean 2013-2014. The Humanitarian Implementation Plan and the Operational Recommendations provide details to the objectives of the 2013-2014 Action Plan.

The regional project to be implemented by UNISDR includes the following elements: (1) Improving communication and dissemination of DIPECHO DRR tools and initiatives in the region, (2) Further advancing in the development of a common strategy towards DRR, as well as (3) Contributions to the consultation process leading to the post-2015 framework for DRR.

The incumbent will be placed in the United Nations Resident Coordinator's office which is hosted by the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) for Barbados and the Eastern Caribbean States, and will work in close coordination with the disaster risk reduction focal points of UNDP and other relevant UN organizations such as PAHO, UNICEF, UNFPA, UN Women and others.

One component of the project is referring to political commitment on DRR at the regional level. Therefore, a close collaboration with the Caribbean Disaster Emergency Management Agency (CDEMA) and the Association of Caribbean States is envisioned. CDEMA, also based in Barbados, is currently reviewing and refining of the framework for the Comprehensive Disaster Management (CDM) Strategy in a participatory process: CDM beyond 2012. With the Declaration-of-Petion-Ville and Action Plan, ACS, identified DRR as one of the focus areas and is in the process of defining concrete activities.

Assumptions and Risks

Given the sheer exposure of the region of the Caribbean to a wide range of natural phenomena, particularly during hurricane season; there exists the risk that the occurrence of such an event could disrupt the implementation of activities as initially envisioned in this Action. This, however, will be viewed as an opportunity to stress the importance of DRR at all levels and activities will be accommodated accordingly in a flexible way. A certain level of political stability is assumed in this Action.

In order to counteract any unforeseen obstacles, however, training and capacity-building activities will target both political and technical authorities and personnel as well as non-government agencies to ensure sustainability.

HFA progress reviews reveal discrepancies in both contexts and advances being made from one country to the next. Such considerations will be accounted for in all facets of this Action.

Interest in reducing disaster risk exists among relevant institutions and agencies operational in the region.
